UNIVERSITY SPORTS.

YESTERDAY'S SUCCESSFUL FUNCTION.

The annual athletic sports of the Hongkong University, which have twice been postponed on account of inclement weather, were held on the University ground, Pokfulam Road, yesterday. There was a large gathering of students of the University and their friends. Sir Claud Severn took an active part in the proceedings as one of the judges.

This year—the Inter-Hostel Championship prize was won by Morrison Hall with 31 points, May Hall being runners-up with 27 points. The Individual Championship prize was won by A. Hoalim (May Hall) with 22 points. S. O. Shahabudin was runner-up with 17 points.

Mrs. R. H. Kotewall distributed the prizes at the end of the sports to the successful competitors.

Education and Sports.

Before inviting Mrs. Kotewall to perform the function, Mr. L. Forster, President of the Sports Committee, said the sports were originally arranged for April 4, but on account of bad weather they had to be postponed twice. "That may appear to be not a reasonable thing to do, but we regard these annual sports as a social event as well as an athletic contest. In England it is probably unreasonable and unwise to postpone sports because of the weather, but here, as I have already said, it is a social as well as a sports meeting. The entries this year are more than those of any previous year, thus showing that the interest in sports has increased, is increasing, and we hope it will not diminish. (Hear, hear) We regard athletic sports generally, such as tennis, as a legitimate part of Western education, and while we do not wish to lay great emphasis on these games as perhaps, is done in England, we feel it is reasonable that a fair proportion of the students' time should be spent in this direction." (Applause).

Dr. Pearce's Interest.

Dr. Pearce was to be congratulated on the success of Morrison Hall in the inter-hostel championship. This success was largely due to the personal interest and the enthusiasm Dr. Pearce had shown during the training period of his students.

Mr. Forster expressed thanks to all those who had contributed to the success of the function, including prize donors and the Engineering Department, which was responsible for marking out the sports ground not once, not twice, but four times. He paid a tribute to the efficient work of the Secretary, Mr. B. P. Ng. Mr. Forster then called upon Mrs. Kotewall to present the prizes, saying that Mrs. Kotewall and her husband had always taken a deep interest in the welfare of the University.

Mrs. Kotewall then gave away the prizes. She also presented the gold medals for the Hongkong Basketball League competition, 1924, which was won by the University and also medals for the Inter-Hostel Basketball competition which was won by Lugard Hall. She was afterwards the recipient of a beautiful bouquet.

Mr. W. W. Hornell, Vice-Chancellor of the University, speaking on behalf of Mrs. Kotewall, said he had been asked to congratulate all the prize winners, especially Mr. Hoalim and the Morrison Hall.

BILLIARDS.

EXCITING SEMI-FINAL.

The most exciting match in the Billiards Championship of the Colony so far was played last night, when P. Yvanovich once again succeeded in getting into the final. He had a hard struggle, however, and only won by a very narrow margin. His opponent was Ng Sze-cheung, a brother of Ng Sze-kwong, and he had the satisfaction of making the highest break of the tournament, a splendidly compiled 91, upon which he was heartily applauded. Yvanovich twice reached the 50 mark.

The opening was all in favour of the Chinese, who pleased his supporters by forging ahead by means of some good breaks. When the interval was called, he was leading by 519 points to 270, and with Yvanovich playing far from his best, it looked as if Ng Sze-cheung would manage to bring off a surprise victory. After dinner, however, Yvanovich reproduced something of the form he is capable of and began to quickly wipe off the arrears. Up to the end, the match was most exciting and anybody's game, Yvanovich eventually winning by 1,000 to 974.

The winners best breaks were: 52, 60, 38 (twice), 37, 34, 31 (twice) and 30. In addition to his fine break of 91, Ng Sze-cheung obtained 43 (twice), 37, 32, 29 and 25 (twice).

THE KING'S ROLL.

All the big railway systems in Britain have now joined the King's Roll for disabled men, as a result of the decision of the London and North-Eastern Railway Company on Monday to apply for enrolment. The railways are required to guarantee that 4 per cent. of their men shall be disabled ex-Service men; and the London and North-Eastern Railway easily fulfil this requirement by employing 9,800 disabled men.

KIDNAPPER
SENTENCED.JUDGE'S STRONG COMMENTS.

Two Chinese, named Leung Shing and Tang Ping, pleaded not guilty to a charge of child stealing when they were brought before Mr. Justice Gollan at the Supreme Court yesterday afternoon.

The Crown case was conducted by Mr. H. K. Holmes, and in giving an outline of the case he said on the day the child disappeared the first prisoner went to the house of the child's mother and asked to take him out to have tea. She refused to let him go at first, but later allowed him to go on condition that he came back soon. Leung Shing, the first prisoner, then took the boy but he did not return. The boy's father and grandfather were informed and they searched but failed to find him. Later the grandfather went over to Macao, and while there saw the boy in the custody of the first prisoner. Second prisoner was also there. They were arrested and brought back to Hongkong with the boy.

The mother gave evidence, saying her son was seven years old. The grandfather of the boy said he was at the Kongmoon wharf at Macao when he saw the first prisoner arrive in a ricksha. He had the boy with him and the second prisoner was there with some luggage. He called the police and told them to arrest both men, which they did.

Getting to Macao.

Statements made by both prisoners when they arrived back in Hongkong were read. The first prisoner said he took the boy to drink tea and afterwards they met Tang Ping, who was going to Macao. They went on board the steamer and were chatting there. The steamer started while he was unaware of it, and he had to go on to Macao. He wanted to return the next day but had no money. Tang Ping was returning and he told him to get expenses and bring them back to Macao. The second prisoner's statement was briefly that he did not kidnap the boy.

This was the Crown case. His Lordship remarked that he thought there was no evidence to connect the second prisoner with the offence, and he directed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty in his case.

Letting the Parents Know.

Leung Shing then went into the box. He repeated his first statement to the police and added that he was well-known at the house of the parents of the boy. He was quite unaware that the steamer was going and was forced to go to Macao.

Cross-examined he said he didn't think of telling Tang Ping when he came back to Hongkong to inform the parents what had happened to the boy although he did think they would be worried at his disappearance. He denied that when arrested he was then going to Kongmoon with the boy. In reply to further questions he said it did not occur to him to ask the Macao police to let the parents know what had happened. He did not send the boy back to Hongkong with Tang Ping because the boy would not follow him.

Judge's Comments.

The jury retired after His Lordship's summing up and on returning brought in a verdict of guilty unanimously.

In passing judgment His Lordship said prisoner had been found guilty of a peculiarly cruel and deliberate offence. In most of these cases a child was enticed away and then his parents were blackmailed. In order to make money people like the prisoner did not care what suffering or pain they inflicted on the parents. He would deal severely with every prisoner convicted of an offence like this and prisoner would go to prison with hard labour for five years.

The jury called to try the case was as follows: Messrs. M. T. Henderson, L. C. Gutierrez, J. T. Goldsmith, F. M. Garcia, H. W. Ahwee, J. Gardner and A. M. Larcina.

HONGKONG, 23rd April, 1925.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY.

To-day marks the last of the four British national celebrations before the summer—St. George's Day, when the Englishman makes a special effort to prove that he is not in the least behind his compatriots from north of the Tweed in keeping fresh the memory of his patron saint. Out here, the weather in April is already too warm for dancing in proper comfort, so the Englishmen's ball has to be held early in the season, but there is left the other means of celebration, and the day does not pass unobserved, even if unsung. This year there was a luncheon on similar lines to the one in 1924, but the most impressive item in the programme of the local branch of the Royal Society of St. George was the laying of a wreath at the Cenotaph in memory of the English lads who died in the Great War. And that brings us somehow to a realisation of what this national day really means.

In conjuring up England ("O to be in England, now that April's there") we see beyond the mere name of the motherland, and visions of the home life arise which take us back for the nonce to town or country, hill or dale, manor or cottage; but always to the glory that is England's, as the poet has put it. Thus, at the Cenotaph, one dwells most, maybe, on the English youth as one likes to see him, sturdy, rosy-cheeked countryman, cheery townsman, silent or gay, blond or brunette, northerner and southerner, in that wonderful medley which marched to final victory alongside their comrades of a passing generation, and fell at Zeebrugge and elsewhere. The banner of St. George has seen many a hard fight on the soil of Flanders and Picardy, and history but repeated itself; and it may be that for the future there is stored up further trial of England's spirit; but always, while the nation lasts, there will be that spark of patriotism, lurking in all classes, which is roused to flame whenever the need comes—a spark which glows on a day like this, and manifests itself in all parts of the world where Englishmen are congregated.

A Notable Figure.

A noteworthy personage in the history of Portugal is being commemorated by the issue of a special set of stamps in Macao—namely, the Marquis de Pombal, on whose designs the finest parts of Lisbon were rebuilt after the disastrous earthquake of 1755. Born at Soure in 1699 of an old and noble family, he first studied for the Bar and then entered the Army, which he later left and remained in private life until 1739, when he was sent as Ambassador to London. Subsequently he went in the same capacity to Vienna, where he married the Countess Daun, through whose influence with her countrywoman, the Dowager Queen and mother of Joseph the First, he was raised to the position of Foreign Minister in Portugal. After this promotion, Portugal may be said to have been regenerated. The Marquis favoured the establishment of manufactures and encouraged printing and agriculture; he gave to the University of Coimbra a new system of studies; he introduced into Brazil the cultivation of coffee, sugar, cotton, rice, indigo and cocoa; and he created the companies of Pernambuco, Para and Maranhao. Unhappily, by his unremitting persecution of the nobility and his merciless conduct towards the family of the Tavoras the brilliancy of his reputation was dimmed, and on the death of Joseph the First, the Queen ordered him to retire to Pombal, where he died in 1780.

Housing Shortage.

Hongkong, which has known something of the shortage of housing accommodation, may be interested to hear that, generally speaking, the United States is just overcoming from the effects of a like experience. But in New York, it appears, the housing famine continues to grow steadily worse. According to a report submitted to the New York Legislature by the Governor, there is no immediate relief in sight, for such construction as is under way brings to the class of people most seriously affected no benefits whatever. Establishment of public credits has been suggested as the best solution—something that will bring down interest charges to about six per cent. One of the reasons in New York for high rents—and the shortage of reasonably-priced houses—is the fact that commercial organisations now have to pay about nine per cent. for money invested in real estate. That is the fact revealed by the city's Bureau of Housing in a report just issued. Here in Hongkong there are other factors operating, besides the interest rates, and although the situation is rather better now than it was, there seems small probability of any general decline in rentals. In fact, the opposite tendency is likely, for it is to be presumed that due approval will shortly be given to the suggested amendment of the Rents Ordinance so as to permit of an increase of 15 per cent. on standard rentals.

NAVAL WEDDING.

AT THE PEAK CHURCH.

The Peak Church was the scene of a pretty naval wedding yesterday when Lieut. Commander Ronald Leeds, R.N., H.M.S. Hawkins (flagship of the China Station), was married to Miss Betty Dawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Dawson, Shanghai, the bride having arrived at Hongkong in the morning on board the Empress of Asia.

The Rev. H. V. Kemp, naval chaplain, performed the ceremony. The bride was prettily attired in a dress of shimmering white charmeuse silver, lined with a tulle veil. A wreath of white blossoms crowned her head and she carried a bouquet of white lilies. She was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. E. B. C. Hornell, Miss S. Dawson, sister of the bride, who was attired in a dress of mauve marocain with hat to match and carried a bouquet of flowers, was the bridesmaid.

Lieut. Commander Middleton, R.N., was best man. After the ceremony, naval officers, the majority of whom were from the H.M.S. Hawkins, comprised a guard of honour, and bride and bridegroom walked out of the church under an archway of thirty-eight swords.

The reception, which was largely attended, was held at Mrs. Hornell's, of 304, The Peak, after which bride and bridegroom drove down to H. M. S. Hawkins which Miss Ai-lan Wu, a Cantonese girl who has been educated abroad, is playing the leading part in "The Tailor", now being produced by the "American Oriental Pictures" under the direct supervision of Mr. Earle K. Dyer. Miss Wu is an accomplished pianist and singer. She is one of the first high-class Chinese girls to enter the cinema world, as the Chinese or the old school have not yet become reconciled to the idea of their women going on the stage, and Miss Wu is one of the pioneers in this field. She is a niece of Dr. Wu Lien-teh, the plague expert.

CHARITY MATCH.

SOUTH CHINA DEFEAT
KOWLOON.

The Kwong Wah Hospital benefited by over $250 as a result of the charity match played on the Kowloon ground yesterday between Kowloon and South China.

The Chinese were without Li Wai-tong, but otherwise were at full strength. Pam Kam-wing opened the scoring after ten minutes play, and then neat work on the left, ending in a good shot by Chan Kwong-ul, saw the ball turned out of Kasmussen's reach by Reed. The left winger scored a third goal shortly after the interval.

Re-arrangement of the Kowloon side brought the game more often in the Chinese half, but such opportunities of scoring as were given were allowed to go begging. The South China team were deserved winners by three goals to nil.

was decorated in accordance with naval custom. The happy couple were then pulled to Kowloon by a cutter's crew whence they left for Fanling where the honeymoon is being spent.

THE GOLD FRANC
SETTLEMENT.CHIEF EXECUTIVE EXPLAINS.

Peking, April 22.

A circular telegram sent to the provinces yesterday by Tuan Chi-jui explaining the gold franc settlement, and now published by Tuan Chi-jui, points out that China, which had been unable to obtain the full benefit of the Washington Conference, lost $24,000,000 annually owing to the French refusal to ratify the Treaty, a question having arisen over the method of payment of the Boxer indemnity. This was due to the French refusal to adopt the method of telegraphic transfer and their insistence on payment in gold currency. During Tsao Kun's regime a settlement was proposed, but Tuan Chi-jui opposed it, as Tsao Kun's only aim was to use the money for prolonging the military strike. If the matter had been concluded at that time, China would have lost the benefit of the provision regarding payment by telegraphic transfer, and this might have led to international disputes.

The Chief Executive declares that the only way to meet the situation arising from China's international financial obligations is to secure the fruition of the Washington Conference decisions. At an interview with the French Minister he emphatically urged that the agreement in regard to the holding of a special Tariff Conference be ratified as soon as possible, and that the gold franc question be separately considered. As the result of further negotiations, the French Minister at length agreed to telegraphic home and request ratification of the treaty. Later, the Waichiaopu and the French Minister took up the gold franc question, a draft agreement being eventually referred to a technical expert committee designated by the Finance Ministry and to the Ministry of Justice, both of whom approved. A most important point, according to Tuan Chi-jui, is that the French Government formally agrees to the remission of the indemnity and formally recognises the principle of telegraphic transfer.

Regarding the rehabilitation of the Banque Industrielle de Chine, Tuan Chi-jui points out that China has now become the Banque's creditor instead of a debtor, and, in conclusion, he claims that, from a diplomatic standpoint, the two questions, namely, the holding of the Tariff Conference and the method of payment of the indemnity, have been separately settled, and that, from a financial standpoint, the acceptance by the French of the method of telegraphic transfer indicates that the Chinese have gained their point. Tuan Chi-jui expresses the opinion that after taking all considerations into account the plan of settlement is quite commendable. He states that there is a strong possibility that the abolition of likin and an increase in the Customs duties, as stipulated in the Mackay Treaty, will be discussed at the forthcoming Tariff Conference, through which he hopes that a sound financial policy will be laid down.—Daily Bulletin.

CEREMONY.

Bruges, April 22.

The arrival of a distinguished party from England, including Sir Roger and Lady Keyes, the Earl and Countess of Cavan, Sir Fabian and Lady Ware, and Lord Burnham, marks the beginning of several days of Anglo-Belgian demonstrations, the central item in which is King Albert tomorrow unveiling the imposing memorial at Zeebrugge, on the anniversary of the attack on the mole.—Reuter.

LONDON MISSION.

$30,000 DEFICIT.

London, April 22.

The high Far Eastern exchange and heavy costs of ocean passages for missionaries, are among the causes of a deficit of thirty thousand pounds sterling in last year's operations of the London Missionary Society.

Similar deficits have resulted annually during the two years. The income last year totalled £138,000; and the society is budgeting an income of £160,000 for next year.—Reuter.

TUSSAUD'S.

TO BE RESURRECTED.

"Of course there will always be a Mme. Tussaud's Exhibition."

In these words Mr. John Tussaud, the present head of the family, indicated his view that there is certain to be a resurrection of the famous waxworks show, largely destroyed in the fire on the night of March 18th.

"Fortunately," he explained, "we have a mould of every wax figure in the exhibition. They are stored in the basement (we call it the catacombs), which was undamaged by the fire."

"Every model can, therefore, be reproduced, but the historical relics are utterly destroyed, and they, alas, are priceless and irreplaceable. They include, of course, our collection of Napoleonic relics, which was the finest in the world."

LOST TREASURES.

Among the historical relics which have perished in the flames are:—

Lawrence's famous picture of George IV.

Pieces of a cravat worn by Charles I. at his execution.

Mary Queen of Scots' Rosary.

Eschings by Queen Victoria and the Prince Consort.

The original guillotine.

Napoleon's Coronation robes.

Voltaire's chair.

Robespierre's rapier and pistols.

Keys of the Bastille.

The value of the damage is put, at a moderate estimate, at £250,000. It is understood that the premises and their contents are fully insured, as is also the loss from receipts during the enforced closing of the exhibition.

Mr. Tussaud revealed that negotiations for the sale of the exhibition were almost complete.

In the Summary Court this morning, before Mr. Justice Wood, Mr. G. Kuhle sued the Hindoe Hotel, Fraya East, for damages in respect of property lost or damaged in transport from the Kitan Maru to the hotel.

The losses included a sewing machine, cigars and cigarettes, and the damaged article included a case of books, cartridges etc. The hotel admitted legal liability, but disputed the amount.

His Lordship entered judgment for $650 and costs.

SPIRITS GROW RICH AT TSING MING.—One old custom observed at Tsing Ming Festival, which has just passed, is to burn paper spirit money at the ancestral graves. This picture shows a Shanghai shop where baskets for holding paper money are made from wheat straw. Hundreds of these baskets were sold in Shanghai during the festival.

CAPITALISM AND COLONIES.

Conditions in Dutch East Indies.

The following, from a Hague correspondent to a London paper, supplements Router's recent cabled news—

For a long time past there have been rumours that certain important concerns connected with the Dutch East Indies had offered to endow Utrecht State University with as many chairs as would be required for the complete training of future colonial civil servants. Events now show these stories to be very well founded.

The customary courses for students of the Dutch Archipelago have hitherto been held at Leyden, where six professors of high repute deal with different sides of the subject. At other universities an "Indian week" has been organised once a year, but Leyden was unquestionably the academy for the men who wished to devote their lives to work in the East.

Recently statements have been made by representatives of the "big trade" class that the Leyden influence should be looked upon with suspicion. It was suggested that the Leyden professors gave undue emphasis to questions of ethics and that their teachings on the responsibility of foreign capitalism to the natives was liable to misinterpretation. Hence charges of encouraging "a revolutionary atmosphere against Dutch rule amongst the natives, and in general of a hostile attitude towards big capitalism and towards the work of the Government in the Archipelago. It is by way of combating these influences that the combined concerns have agreed to found a faculty of Indonesian studies at Utrecht.

The Government has by no word or action shown its disapproval of this private enterprise, which not only accuses Leyden of antinational teaching, but which will tend to give definite and one-sided colouring to the new tuition.

In an article in the monthly "De Gids," the six Leyden professors involved refute the allegations entirely point by point, and sum up the policy of their teaching as based on the co-operation with the natives, and continuous furtherance of Indonesian social interests.

Requests have reached the Minister of Education from various quarters, asking him to withhold his sanction from the new faculty. The juridical faculty of Amsterdam University is one of those, as well as professors of other faculties, at Groningen University and of Utrecht University itself.

Amongst these mentioned as possible occupants for the new professorial chairs are Mr. I. A. Nederburgh, ex-president of the Dutch East-Indian High Court, and Dr. F. C. Gerritsen, a director of the "Bataafsche Petroleum Maatschappij" (Royal Dutch), and known through this literary work under the pseudonym of Geerten Gossaert.

LAST POLISH KING.

Remains to be Transferred to Warsaw.

The remains of the last Polish King, Stanislaus August Poniatowski, who died in 1798 in Petrograd, and was buried in the St. Catherine Cathedral, are to be transferred to Poland. Negotiations to that effect are being carried on by the Polish Minister in Moscow. The matter has become urgent through the decision of the Soviet authorities to exhume all bodies interred in the catacombs of this cathedral, and to bury them in a common grave. Stanislaus August, during whose reign Poland was dismembered, after abdicating in 1795 took up his residence in Petrograd.

The Polish Press recalls that another Polish King, Stanislaw Leszczynski, father-in-law of Louis XV., is supposed to be interred in the same cathedral. Leszczynski died in 1766, in Lunoville, and was primarily buried in Nancy, where his royal tomb still exists. But the tomb is empty. According to one version, the coffin with the body was abstracted by Polish legionnaires who fought under Napoleon I., and placed in the palace of Counts Zaluski in Warsaw. Some time later the palace was pillaged by Russian soldiers, and the valuable coffin, with the body, was supposed to have been sent as booty to Petrograd.

DUKE OF YORK'S "BAG."
Some particulars of the shooting trip of the Duke and Duchess of York in Northern Uganda have been received. After a long safari in the neighbourhood of the Victoria Nile, the Duke shot a magnificent elephant, with 90lb. tusks, close to the Tengri River. The country was very difficult, but two days later the Duke secured a second elephant in the long grass, also a lion. The party subsequently proceeded to a "rhino" camp, where the Duke shot a fine specimen of a white rhinoceros.

MURDER OF THE SIRDAR.

Cairo, April 22.

The judicial authorities have published a summary of confessions of some of the nine accused who were yesterday indicted in connection with the murder of the Sirdar, showing the existence of a secret society for the organisation of political crimes, called the "Society of Vengeance," of which two students and two artisans, who will be charged with the murder, and a lawyer and a Government official, who will be charged with complicity, were members. It appears from the confessions that following the failure of conversations between Zaghlul Pasha and Mr. Ramsey Macdonald in London, the conspirators met at the lawyer's house and decided to commit a political murder, choosing the Sirdar as the victim.

The police to-day arrested a railway workshops employee named Hajjammed, at his domicile, where they discovered a revolver and a quantity of ammunition of a type used in six outrages. Further developments are probable. Indications point to the police finally getting to the root of things.—Reuter.
